

The Tree house

Roswell, Georgia

Views of this wooded back yard were the guiding force behind this multi-level deck design. Consideration was given to the interior and exterior visuals to minimize the impact and obscuration of this natural sloping back yard.

The deck includes a private architectural "gateway" to a retreat set aloft the trees. The concept of a series of elevated spaces including an outdoor dining, living and private spa niche, harmonized the natural beauty of the site and the client's lifestyle objectives.

